>> deklava gregoric arhitekti

4 years after the first edition the renowned publisher Birkhauser decided and launched the second edition which they just presented at the Frankfurt Book Fair.

This book was initiated on our final thesis presentation to international jury at the Architectural Association and was originally published in September 2002 by AA Publications. It was launched at the AA with an exhibition and a lecture. Since then negotiate my boundary! received a lot of international attention in forms of awards, publications, exhibitions and lectures. These events offered us an opportunity to continually assess and evolve the project. Given that the addressed topics such as mass-customisation of collective housing, users' participation and responsive environments are still central to theoretical and practical architectural discourse this re-edition of negotiate my boundary! is out.
